American Energy Works

Improving the lives of millions.

Before we dive into individual issues, it helps to get acquainted with the American energy success story!

The record of American energy development is clear—and it works! It's reducing the cost to fuel our cars and heat our homes. It's bringing valuable revenue to help fund schools, police officers, and community programs. It's creating jobs and building a stronger, more prosperous economy. Because of the American energy revolution, families across the nation are seeing:

Increased Money for Schools and Community Services

Community parks, police and fire stations, roads, and classrooms are benefiting from $85 million every day in tax revenue coming from American energy development.

A More Secure American Energy Future

Gone are the days of energy scarcity and gas lines. An influx of American-made energy is changing the global energy dynamic, making us more secure and saving us money here at home.

More Money in Their Pockets

Families are spending $2 BILLION less a week to fill up their cars and, last year, families saved an average of $1,200 on their heating bills.

Jobs Being Created in Their Communities

American energy supports the careers of 9.8 million men and women, and it's creating jobs in manufacturing, IT, construction, and in local small businesses. American energy has turned ghost towns into boom towns.

The bottom line?

American energy works! And it is strengthening our communities.

WHY IT MATTERS

American energy is supporting our communities and building a brighter, more independent energy future—but all that could change! These successes have emboldened activists who want to shut down American energy development and all the benefits that come with it.
